ARTICLE XII

PATTERNS (HYUNGS / POOMSAE / KATA / KUEN / FORMS)

Patterns are basic movements using the martial arts techniques against an imaginary opponent. All promotional examinations require patterns to be performed at each belt level. This teaches the student to learn how to execute basic movements with power, speed, focus and concentration; for without these attributes the patterns cannot be performed properly. Learning to perform the patterns correctly will enable the student to develop self- defense skills, sparring and breaking techniques, plus improve body co-ordination and strength.

ARTICLE XIII

SPARRING

There are many types of Sparring. The following are used at the I.S.A. headquarters school:

- One-step
- Three-step
- Free sparring:
 1. Olympic-style Taekwondo (Based on the Rules of the World Taekwondo Federation (WTF))
 2. Sport Taekwondo (Based on the Rules of the International Taekwon-Do Federation (ITF))
 3. Sport karate (Based on the Rules of NASKA & ISKA)
 4. Full-contact (Rules based on the MMA / UFC)
 5. Full-contact (no rules) (pure street fighting)

ARTICLE XIV

SELF-DEFENSE

Self-defense may consist of any logical means by which one person may ward off an attack. The type of attack may range from a simple wrist grab to a life and death situation involving a weapon. All I.S.A. students involved in a promotional examination must demonstrate self-defense techniques. It is therefore required that all belt levels be taught these techniques.

I.S.A. Instructors may use any self-defense techniques that are practical (they must work for everybody, not just one or two individuals).

ARTICLE XV

INSTRUCTIONAL CLINICS & PROMOTIONAL REVIEWS

1. Any I.S.A. Instructor of an affiliated school may request a Clinic or Promotional review, by sending the request to I.S.A. headquarters, c/o the Director.
2. Once a date has been set, the applying member must then submit the clinic and/or promotional review fee for each member.

3. The minimum amount of students per clinic or review shall be twenty-five (25) for each clinic or review, (Nationally) and fifty (50) for all International events.
4. For each clinic, there will be a minimum amount guaranteed for the amount of $2500.00.
5. The I.S.A. member requesting the clinic or promotional review will be required to pay for transportation to and from the I.S.A. Headquarters to the clinic site for the instructor(s).
6. The requesting I.S.A. member shall be required to pay for lodging at a motel / hotel of the visiting instructor(s) choice.
7. If the instructor(s) come to give a clinic, said instructor(s) shall also hold a promotional review at no additional charge, (except the normal testing fee).
8. Clinics (seminars) held within this organization shall be conducted by I.S.A. Instructors of 2nd Degree or above.
